Summary: Road to Enlightenment is a range of regional and varietally expressive wines seeking to be full flavoured, full of character and exceptionally drinkable. Wines of the past that were too overt in fruit, oak or weight is where we began, the balanced, fresh and vibrant wines of Road to Enlightenment is where we are headed.

Vineyards: Sourced from a two vineyards, each contributing significantly to the final blend. The cooler vineyard in southern Robe was picked slightly later than the slightly warmer site on the southern border of Padthaway.

Winemaking: The two vineyards were picked five days apart from each other, pressed and fermented separately prior to blending and bottling. A small portion of the blend was matured in second use French oak with the majority in stainless steel on yeast lees.

Tasting Note: A ripe nose of stone fruits and lemon peel, with subtle cinnamon, nuts and toast aromas. The wine is ripe yet super-fresh and mouth-filling. An excellent accompaniment to richer or creamier dishes as well being wonderful on it's own.
